

Topamax Side Effects

Dangerous Topamax side effects have become the subject of potential lawsuits. Topamax has been linked to birth defects in children after unsuspecting mothers took the drug thinking it was safe.

It was not until March 2011 that the label was changed to show the significant risk of birth defects in newborns, including oral clefts and hypospadias.

Learn more about Topamax symptoms related to birth defects.

Or contact the Topamax lawyers today to look over your case. Consultations are free, and we can give you information about your options for filing a Topamax lawsuit.

Side Effects for the Topamax User

Topamax can also have potentially serious side effects for the user. These include: severe depression, mental confusion, allergic reactions, kidney stones, a type of glaucoma, and metabolic acidosis.*

Talk to your doctor immediately if you are taking Topamax and you experience any symptoms.

*Topamax side effects information for the user taken from WebMD.com.